SUMMARY INFORMATION

Title: Henry Bacon McKoy Scrapbook Collection
Dates: Items 1903-1979; Subjects 1785-1979
Accession #: 2004-033
Physical Description: 9 scrapbooks (8 boxes)
Languages: Collection material in English.

ADMINISTRATIVE INFORMATION

Acquisition:
Originally obtained by Steve Richardson in 1991, the collection was donated to Special Collections in 2004.

Biographical Sketch:
A native of Wilmington, NC, Henry Bacon McKoy was born on September 21, 1893. He attended George Washington University and then served with the U.S. Army 105th Engineers in France in WWI. McKoy began his career as an engineer and marble inspector on the construction of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, DC. He was a partner in the Morris-McKoy Company that built Furman University’s Sirrine Stadium in 1936. The Henry B. McKoy Construction Company and the McKoy-Helgerson Company constructed many buildings over the South. McKoy was interested in North and South Carolina history and wrote many books about local history and his family's genealogy. McKoy died in 1991.

USING THE COLLECTION

Access Restrictions: None.

Preferred Citation: [Identification of item], Henry Bacon McKoy Scrapbook Collection, Special Collections and Archives, Furman University, Greenville, S.C.
SCOPE AND CONTENT

This collection contains nine scrapbooks that document the history, the people and the places of Greenville, SC through newspaper clippings, photographs, correspondence, maps, and brochures.

COLLECTION INVENTORY

Book 6: "Greenville, SC." Clippings from the Greenville News, maps, brochures, correspondence, photographs (items date 1907-1975)

Book 7: "Greenville, SC." Clippings from the Greenville News, '46-'79; (dates covered 1824-1979)
