The bodies were buried in one grave, in an open lot in the north part of the city. Rev. Mr. Edward G. Roach, the rector of the Episcopal Church, and subsequently made a note

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM BROWN AND HIS TRIO—The Marked Brigade Correspondent of the New York Mercury writes some amusing stories about the war of secession.

"The women of America, my boy, are a credit to the American flag," said he.

"What did you do to them this morning?" replied the correspondent.

"I ordered them to the rear," was the answer.

"Why did you do that?"

"Because it was a Saturday," was the reply, "and I don't think ladies ought to go to battle on a Saturday."
THE CAMPAIGNS IN KENTUCKY—the national troops under General Johnson advancing on the Louisville and Nashville railways, overtaken by the railroad trains the Louisville and Nashville railways—from a sketch by our special artist with General Winkle's command.—See page 141.
